Description

add bold text to intro sentence. The sentence that says "...additional tables may be added after you create your data package." is confusing because I thought I'd already created the package and I'm just adding data now. maybe it should say, "additional tables may be added after you finish this wizard" or something like that. I don't think the sentence that says "required fields are highlighted" is needed because if you got this far without knowing what the red text means then you're in trouble.

in the "Define Attribute or Column" dialog, the example for a datatype precision needs more explanation, i.e. what does "1" represent?
