In the geographic and temporal coverage panels of the package wizard, if you hit the back button, the information is deleted and not included in the created package. if you never hit the back button, the information is still included in the created package.

this also seems to happen with the owners panel (step 5). i think the reason is different though. This occurs when you go back to a panel before step 5, the go foward again into step 5. the list is blanked out and you are immediately shown the dialog to add a new contact. i think the logic just needs to be altered to check if there is already an entry in the list and if there is, don't auto-display the new contact dialog. (note that this also happens in step 6 which has similar behavior).

fixed for party panels (owner & contact). Fix was in WizardContainerFrame.java, so may also have fixed similar problems with some other pages, although Temporal page had some reset functions in onLoadAction, which I believe Dan is fixing
