| Description | | | |
| It would be nice to have the kepler website have the same look and feel (and functionality) as the SEEK site. We should move the kepler.ecoinformatics.org site into the new wiki system as soon as possible. | | | |

Well, I like the idea of having it as a Wiki, but I don't think it should have the exact same L&F as the SEEK web. It still needs to have a distinct look of its own, one that works for all of the projects making contributions. But that is probably just a matter of changing the color scheme and maybe some icons around a bit.
