Description

Almost every time I create a new data package, I have the need to add one or more citations where more info on the data set can be found, and I would guess this is the case with most users. Because one has to browse through the tree editor to find where to put this info, oftentimes the info is not included at all. It would be great if there were a dpw screen to add this info - the citation screens used in the taxonomic coverage citations could be used.
