Description

-- The webpages have a few different links to installation manuals. We need to incorporate these under one unique text file (like Matt J. has in the cvs.) and link it from various places on the website. The content of the pdf and word files are great. They need to be copied into the text file also keeping what Matt has. This needs to reflect the new build process after the kar files.

-- Developers tutorial needs to be integrated into the new kar architecture.

-- An email to kepler-dev to check and suggest changes to FAQ's. Not urgent.
