Description It was originally thought that the change in ecogrid namespaces (beta to 1.0) would be incompatible with the current DigirQueryService deployment (using beta namespaces). This appears not to be the case (they work together!) But, really, the namespaces should be enforced. When the enhancements for doing faster (cached?) and better (dynamic providers listing?) digir queries are ready, we should deploy an updated version of this service. Dave Vieglais sounds keen on this and will assist.
