Description

When the browser component has the focus, either in normal mode or select-from-source mode, pressing the left and right arrow keys will change the PDF page displayed by the browser without informing the graphic page-navigation controls (the 'current page number' doesn't change; the prev/next buttons may also be affected).

This no longer seems to be an issue; it's possible that this was fixed when we went away from Multivalent's browser component. (Resubmit after fire)
