Description
When some question text doesn't appear where you expect it to be, it would be very nice to have a find feature that finds it within the questions list so that you can copy/paste it.

I think this an important usability feature. However, the GUI for it may take some time to implement. I don't think it can be done by alpha3.

I still think this would be an important usability feature. But, Jay has gotten by without it, so it's not needed for a successful prototype.
