

FIRST - Bug #3629

Make it clearer where images can be dropped

Description

If we are dragging and dropping an image, possible targets are highlighted when the mouse cursor is over them. However, you have to drag the cursor around to find the possible targets.

Perhaps adding an "Image" label into the GUI would make it so that people can understand where the image goes more easily.

This is now implemented, but needs more testing. I'm setting this to fixed for now, but expect that other bugs will be reported as this feature is tested more.
