| Description | | | |
| Skins contain property files which contain sensitive information that shouldn't be exposed publicly. Both Perl and Tomcat need access in some form to these files to read skin properties, but direct access should be disallowed. | | | |

History

We need to disallow web access. Apache deny rule?

#2 - 01/02/2009 08:18 AM - Michael Daigle

added security-constraint sections to web.xml to restrict web access to *.cfg and *.properties files.
