

Kepler - Bug #3905

In devel tree, build-area should be renamed to build

Description I'd like to see the "build-area" directory name changed to "build", though this is a matter of personal preference. I think "build" is more common than "build-area" and is shorter to type. Also, "-area" does not supply much information. All directories are areas or workspaces, so "-area" is redundant.

Closing this. It was thought that the name 'build' would make people think they could delete the directory, so the name will remain 'build-area'.
