Description

Steps to reproduce:

Turn on "Show images" using the button at the top of a question. Drag a question onto the appropriate prompt text or drop target. Then, remove the image using the remove button. At this point, the "Show images" button will still say "Hide Images", but the box saying "Drag a new image here" will not be shown.

Should I mark bug 3966 as a duplicate of this bug?

I don't think this is quite a duplicate of bug 3966. At least the part in 3966 about the drop target not necessarily being correct is different than this one. So I think they should remain as separate bugs.

This is no longer an issue with the new image drag-and-drop target notification mechanisms. (Resubmit after fire)
