Description

<jing> i went to this page:
<jing> <http://dev.nceas.ucsb.edu/knb/style/skins/dev/login.html>
<jing> logged in successfully
<jing> then in the same window, i pasted a url into the browser:
<jing> <http://dev.nceas.ucsb.edu/knb/metacat?action=read&qformat=knb&sessionid=&docid=tao.12879.1>
<jing> it give me the user public couldn't read it.

<daigle> we did modify the way sessions work
<daigle> devtools may not have been updated

what if you omit the "sessionid=" form the query string? seems like passing in a blank would confuse the other session management mechanisms and I believe the sessionid parameter takes precedence

- Status changed from New to Rejected

now using JSESSIONID cookies when you leave the sessionid off the query string
