Description
If you enter an incorrect username or organization for your profile, there is no way to edit the mistake. You can delete the profile and start fresh, but often times a number of datapackages have already been created in that profile and migrating DPs to a new one is not the most straightforward process.

In Morpho 2.0, the profile will no longer be tied to any specific log-in. The profile will still store a scope for identifying packages, but it seems fine to create a new profile if you'd like to change the scope of the packages you create and edit.
Marking as "won't fix" since it will be a moot point after 2.0.
