Description
The permission order section should be removed. There is only a single option now.

Do we still need to indicate user that it is allowFirst somehow? I am thinking instead to remove the permission order section, we can change the the radion button "allowFirst" to a label "allowFirst".

I think it can be removed from the screen completely. In DataONE there is no notion of a "permission order" and we don't support access rules that include them in EML now.

Remove the panel.
