Description

Elements of the dmanclient user interface need to be relabeled in a user-friendly manner. For example, the term "metadata" is generally not known by ecological scientists, so "docuemntation" or "data documentation" would be a better term. For example, the main application tabs in the query client could be changed to "Data Documentation", "Search", and "Browse". These labels aren't ideal either. We should have a ocnversation about the ultimate labels used in the application, and get scientist feedback about them.
